Meeting brought to order at 2:50pm

Jay welcomed everyone and introduced all the officers and Board members. Then Jay thanked Scott for hosting our club meeting. First order of Business is our tanks for teachers project. Bob (Lowman) has donated a 45 gallon glass tank. Jay asks if anyone would be willing to donate anything to the tanks for teachers to please let him know. One problem that was brought up is what would happen to the tank during the summer months or over vacation times? A automatic feeder was one suggestion. Scott suggested that maybe have two tanks. One the teacher has at home and one for the classroom.

Jay asked if anyone would like to become a member or would like to renew their membership to please see Brandy and she would be glad to answer any questions you might have. Prices are $20 for single membership and $30 dollars for family.

Jay announced our new club logo. Vanz was the winner of the logo contest. Congratulations Vanz!!! His design will be on all our merchandise, letterhead, business cards, t-shirts, hats etc. Hopefully we will have some things for sale at our Christmas party. Ron added that Waves offered a $25 dollar gift certificate to the winner. Might find out more details on that.

Next order of business is our annual Christmas Party if anyone would like to donate some frags to be used in our auction. All proceeds go to benefit our club. Jay will post a link with all the Christmas party information on it. We will have door prizes and an auction. Our guest speaker is Pat from PFO Lighting. We will also have frag trading and a white elephant gift exchange. As a bonus all members will get a 3 dollar discount and kids under 12 years of age eat for free. Sponsors, their families also get the special discount price. Our party will be held at JJNorth's Buffet from 3-6pm. More information is available on the PNWMAS website.

Also Jay will add a sticky in the general forum so people can access the library. If anyone would like to check out something please let Jay know and he will bring the item(s) to the next meeting.
